The Perfect Way to Screen Wood Windows - Incognito®

The look and feel of wood windows can be the finishing touch to any room. The Incognito is the best way to screen beautiful wood window while maintaining the look. Not only does the screen retract into the recessed housing so as not to obstruct the view when the screen is not in use, but the Incognito is also made using real wood veneer to match the finish of the window.

“The Incognito looks great, operates smoothly and is stainable to match any finish making the screen virtually undetectable,” says Randy Deering, Vice President and General Manager at Genius. “It’s a functional and elegant way to screen any wood window.”

The wood veneer comes in pine, alder and fir to match the most common wood grains of most wood window manufacturers.

Genius Retractable Screen Systems has manufacturing facilities in Mocksville, North Carolina. Genius is considered one of the innovative leaders of retractable screen technology for doors, windows and custom applications like garages and porches.
